

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Peggy L. Anderson is professor of special education in the Teacher Education Department at Metropolitan State University of Denver. Her research has focused on learning disabilities, assessment, inclusion, and curriculum accessibility. She has published numerous articles and books, including the Streamlined Shakespeare Series. She is currently a principal investigator for a longitudinal study of dyslexia (“International Dyslexia Project”) and has recently published the first volume of this research (International Case Studies of Dyslexia).

From Case Studies for Inclusive Schools, 3rd Ed., by Peggy L. Anderson, Austin, TX: PRO-ED. Copyright 2013 by PRO-ED, Inc.