

About the Author

David M. Luterman, EdD, is professor emeritus at Emerson College in Boston and former director of the Thayer Lindsey Family Centered Nursery for Hearing Impaired Children. He has dedicated his career to developing a greater understanding of the psychological effects and emotions associated with hearing impairment and the caregiver role. He has successfully translated this understanding into a model of counseling that allows for content and affect exchange. He has written and lectured extensively on counseling throughout the United States and Canada and abroad. He is a fellow of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association and 2011 recipient of the Frank Kleffner Lifetime Clinical Achievement Award. In addition to this book, he is author of Counseling Parents of Hearing Impaired Children (1979, Little, Brown), Deafness in Perspective (1986, College Hill), Deafness in the Family (1987, College Hill), In the Shadows (1995, Jade Press), The Young Deaf Child (1999, York Press), Early Childhood Deafness (coedited with Ellen Kurtzer-White, York Press, 2001), When Your Child Is Deaf (2001, York Press), and Hearing Loss in Children: A Family Guide (Auricle Ink Press, 2006).
