
About the Author

Leslie Bilik-Thompson, M. A., CCC-SLP, earned her Master of Arts Degree in Speech Language Pathology at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana. She has worked as a speech-language pathologist in a wide variety of clinical settings, including intensive and acute care, rehabilitation, extended care hospitals, private practice, and home health care.

WALC 6 is Leslie's first publication with LinguiSystems.

Dedication

It is with heartfelt sincerity that I dedicate this book to each and every client I have worked with, for they have taught me genuine lessons in courage, determination, human will, compassion, and individuality.

Acknowledgments

I would like to sincerely thank LinguiSystems, with appreciation to Lauri Whiskeyman, for making the publication of this book possible.

I would also like to give special thanks to my first boss, Linda Norris-Morton, who truly valued "functional" speech language therapy, and who was always my number one advocate for the non-traditional activities I used during therapy in order to promote more meaningful and functional intervention for my clients.

I would like to express special gratitude to Dr. S. M. Barlow, Ph.D., a distinguished scientist in the field of Communication Neuroscience Research, for his steadfast support and encouragement of my endeavors in the field of speech-language pathology and in life, for teaching me the great connection between science and therapy, and for always inspiring me to learn more.

Lastly, I would like to thank my family for their love and for giving me extra long turns on the family computer in order to finish this book!
