

About the Authors

Denise K. Parks, M.A., CCC-SLP received her undergraduate degree in communicative disorders from San Diego State University and her master's degree from California State University, Fullerton. She has worked as a speech-language pathologist serving children for the past 16 years and currently works in the public school system in southern California. Denise has a special interest in treating children with apraxia of speech and improving children's self-esteem through their increased ability to express themselves intelligibly and communicate well with others. When not working, Denise enjoys spending time with her family. No-Glamour Vowels is Denise's first publication with LinguSystems.

Dedication

To my beautiful children, Hannah and Timothy, and my wonderful husband, Jeff, without whose love and support this great endeavor would not have been possible. I also wish to dedicate this work to the children and families with whom I have had the pleasure of working. I am so blessed to have been part of your lives!

Tera LaBrosciano, M.A., CCC-SLP received her undergraduate and master's degree from California State University, Fullerton. She has worked as a public school speech-language pathologist since 1997, serving preschool, elementary, and middle school children. She has also worked with adults in the hospital setting. Tera is extremely thankful to be a part of the rewarding field of speech pathology. When not working, Tera enjoys photography, scrapbooking, and creating memories with her family and friends. No-Glamour Vowels is Tera's first publication with LinguSystems.

Dedication

To my wonderful parents, Terry and Carol; my amazing husband, Danny; my loving children, Jake and Jenna; and my entire family and special friends. Thank you for your love, support, and encouragement. I would also like to thank the children I've worked with in my career. They are such an inspiration!

Kristen S. Kolde, M.S., CCC-SLP received her undergraduate degree from California State University, Fullerton, and her master of science degree from Loma Linda University. She has worked as a speech-language pathologist in the public school system since 2001, serving children from preschool to high school age with speech-language delays and disorders. Kristen's current interest is working with preschool children with limited language abilities. When not working, Kristen enjoys hiking, camping, riding bikes, and taking walks with her family. No-Glamour Vowels is Kristen's first publication with LinguSystems.

Dedication

To my incredible husband, Jeff; my strong boys, Nate and Ben; and my extended family and good friends. Their support and encouragement make all things possible. I also dedicate this work to the children and families with whom I've had the privilege to do speech therapy. They have taught me so much!
