

Contents

Preface to Series	■ v
Introduction	■ 1
What Is a Behavioral Contract?	■ 2
Examples of Behavioral Contracts in Use	■ 3
At Home	■ 3
At School	■ 4
At Work	■ 4
In Marriage	■ 4
Basic Rules for Making Contracts	■ 5
Rule 1: Select Behaviors that Are Socially and Educationally Important	■ 6
Rule 2: Include Only One or a Few Closely Related Target Behaviors	■ 10
Rule 3: Make a List of Possible Rewards (Reinforcers) that Are Meaningful and Fair	■ 10
Rule 4: Have the Contract Written and Signed	■ 12
Rule 5: Have the Contract Written in Positive Terms	■ 12
Rule 6: Make Contracts Specific Regarding the Behavior and the Consequences	■ 13
Rule 7: Contracts Should Have a Definite Beginning and End	■ 14
Rule 8: Provide Frequent Reinforcement that Immediately Follows the Behavior	■ 16
Rule 9: Provide Attention and Approval for Progress Toward Fulfilling the Contract	■ 17
Rule 10: A Good Contract Should Ensure Success	■ 18
Rule 11: Contracts Should Be Negotiated and Should Be Fair to Both Parties	■ 18
Rule 12: Contracts Should Allow for Renegotiation	■ 19
Rule 13: Keep a Record of Performance on the Contracted Behavior	■ 20
Rule 14: Fade Out Written Contracts	■ 23
Behavioral Contract Forms	■ 23
Negotiating Your Own Contract	■ 27
Checking Up	■ 28

Potential Problems ■ 29

Where To From Here? ■ 30

References and Further Reading ■ 31

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.