

.....

About the Author

A speech-language pathologist for more than a decade, Luanne Martin has worked at facilities as diverse as private schools and nursing homes. Her caseloads have included adults with post-CVA neurological impairments and children with mild to moderate language delays, severe learning disabilities, and autism. In her current position with the East Haven, Connecticut, public school system, Ms. Martin provides diagnostic and management services for students in elementary school special education classes.

Ms. Martin received a B.A. in social science from Ohio State University, a B.S. in audiology and speech pathology from Florida State University, and an M.S. in speech pathology from the same institution. She holds the Certificate of Clinical Competence from the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.