

About the Author

Susanne Phillips Keeley, M.S., CCC-SLP, earned degrees in Communication Disorders & Speech Science and Psychology from the University of Colorado. She received her M.S. in Speech-Language Pathology from Northwestern University and continues to work and live in the Chicago area.

She has specialized in the evaluation and treatment of adult neurological disorders in many settings, including inpatient acute care, outpatient, acute rehabilitation, home care, and private practice.

The Source for Executive Function Disorders is Susanne's first publication with LinguSystems.

Dedication

To my parents, Betty and Jim, for their love; to my friends the Bradley Family, for their humor and encouragement and the Mates Family for their motivation and insight; to my husband, Bill, for his love and support; and to my children, Lauren and James, who make me smile every day.