

A Drooping Flower

Picture 1: Matt is drinking a cup of water. Molly is sad. Her flower is drooping.

Picture 2: Molly asks Matt for a drink of water. He thinks that she is thirsty.
Matt hands the cup of water to Molly.

Picture 3: Look! Molly is not drinking the water. She is pouring the water on her drooping flower.
Matt is surprised!

Picture 4: Yay! The flower is standing up straight. It looks beautiful! Matt and Molly are happy.

Yes/No Questions

1. Is Molly in this story?
2. Is Matt in this story?
3. Is Matt drinking orange juice in this story?
4. Is Matt drinking water in this story?
5. Is Molly's flower drooping?
6. Does Molly ask Matt for a penny?
7. Does Molly ask Matt for a drink of water?
8. Does Molly pour the water on Matt's head?
9. Does Molly pour the water on her flower?
10. Are Matt and Molly happy that the flower is standing up straight?

Wh- and How Questions

1. Who is in this story?
2. What is Matt drinking?
3. Why is Molly sad?
4. What does drooping mean?
5. What does Molly ask Matt?
6. Where does Molly pour the water?
7. How does Matt feel when he sees Molly pour the water on her flower?
8. What happens to the flower?
9. How does the flower look after Molly gives it water?
10. How do Matt and Molly feel when they see how beautiful the flower looks?

Suggested Props

cup of water — a little water in a clear plastic cup flower — a plastic or silk flower stuck into clay in a flowerpot (Bend the stem for a drooping flower and unbend the stem to make it stand up straight.

If you don't have an old flower, you can tape a paper flower onto a pipe cleaner.)

Matt is drinking a cup of water.

A Drooping Flower

Matt hands the cup of water to Molly.

A Drooping Flower

Molly is pouring the water on her drooping flower.

A Drooping Flower

Yay!

The flower is standing up straight!

A Drooping Flower