

About the Author

Kristin Becker, M.A., CCC-SLP, has worked as a speech-language pathologist in the public schools since 2007 after graduating from Michigan State University. Kristin has provided both classroom-based and small group instruction to preschool and elementary students. Her experience includes working with students who have primary speech and/or language impairment, autism spectrum disorder, developmental delay, and severe/multiple disabilities. As a military spouse, Kristin has had the unique opportunity to work across the nation, including working at schools in Michigan, Florida, Oklahoma, and South Carolina. Kristin incorporates storybooks into her therapy and has found this to be a quick and easy way to establish rapport with students. Kristin has special interests in the connection between spoken and written language, as well as using alternative/augmentative communication to help students with disabilities access activities alongside typically-developing peers. Speech and Language Activities for Grades 1-3 is Kristin's first publication with LinguSystems.

Dedication

I would like to dedicate the book to the "Speech Stars" of C.A. Weis Elementary School in Pensacola, Florida.

Acknowledgments

Special thanks to Julia Jurgens, SLP Editor, and Margaret Warner, Illustrator, for their diligent dedication and care in preparing these activities to share.
